MANAGER'S COMMENTS

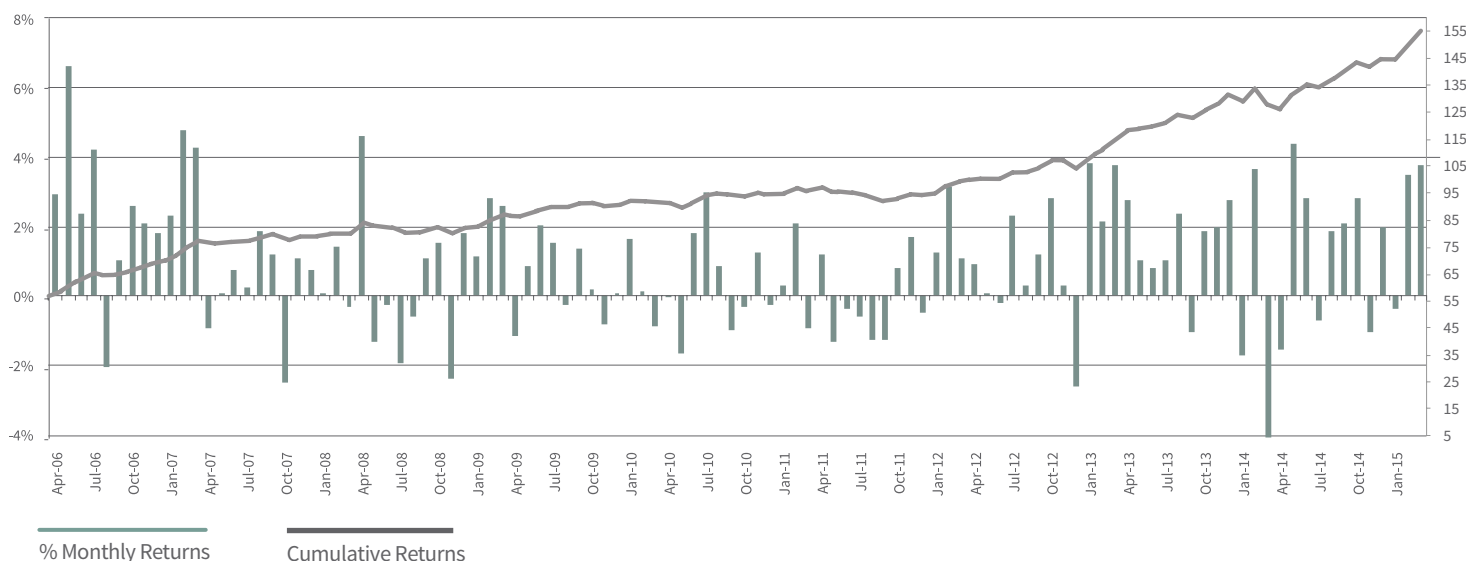

The Capricorn Market Neutral Fund performed very well in March, returning 3.7%. The performance was made especially pleasing as it was driven by strong results from our long held positions on the long and the short side.

Steinhoff carried on its strong performance from the previous months as the market continues to reward it for the strong results released at the beginning of the month. The finalisation of the Pepkor transaction and the upcoming potential listing in Frankfurt should continue to drive Steinhoff higher. Naspers benefited from very strong results reported by its principal investment Tencent which surprised the market by growing the revenue from advertising strongly.

Our negative view on the resource sector, especially South African specific counters, contributed very well to the performance. We see these marginal mining companies as being most exposed to a structural bear market in the commodity complex. The relative trade we have on between International property against South African property companies continues to perform strongly.

After a very pleasing reporting season for the portfolio we are now moving into a period of little market news flow with the main drivers being macro events and capital flows. This may provide attractive opportunities to enter into our preferred investment opportunities.

Notes: Italicized performance numbers are actual returns earned while the "fund" managed internal money. Returns during this period have been adjusted to account for a notional management fee of 1.5% per annum and a performance fee of 20% of all profits earned in excess of the overnight cash return, while taking account of a high-water mark. No adjustment has been made for third party administration cost prior to February 2010 when the independent administrator was appointed.
