MANAGER'S COMMENTS

The Fund returned 3.3% for the month which is an exceptional result when compared to the JSE which returned 0.95%. The JSE performance was largely driven by SABMiller, which was up 26.7% for the month off the back of the takeover bid by Anheuser-Busch Inbev as well as the concerns around Glencore's overleveraged balance sheet.

Our long book performed, with two of our high conviction positions, Discovery and Steinhoff, doing well on the back of excellent results. They continue to successfully internationalise their businesses and we remain excited with their prospects. Given the level of volatility and risk aversion a few stocks underperformed in the healthcare and financial sectors but we still feel the fundamentals remain the same and the stocks will appreciate going forward. In addition, Mr Price reported a weaker than expected trading update and was duly punished by the market.

Our shorts were large contributors to the month's performance, where we again achieved good results from positions in the industrial, resource and financial sectors. We believe this month clearly illustrates that our approach of using single name shorts and avoiding indexes is the correct way to balance a book. The performance of the JSE in September was completely flattered by the SAB deal announcement.

Overall we feel comfortable with our book and will continue to monitor where we think the market has overreacted and look to take advantage of any mispricing while maintaining cognisance of the risk of a market rally which is always a possibility at such depressed market levels.

Yellen's decision not to raise rates on the basis of concerns about the global economy will further add to the volatility and we may even see a beta rally in the closing months of the year.
