Manager's Comments

After a challenging market for the JSE in the second quarter ("Q2"), South African assets recovered some ground in July with the rand appreciating by 3.4% against the US dollar, South African bonds increased by 2.2% and South African equities produced a flat result. The "SA Inc" companies performed particularly well with MSCI South Africa ending up 5% versus MSCI Emerging Markets Index up 1.7% and MSCI World Index up 3.1% (all three in USD terms).

The political economy again dominated the news flow for the month of July with further worries surrounding trade wars between China and the United States, Theresa May's continued challenges, at home and abroad, in the Brexit negotiations and technicalities on how the South African government will proceed on the sensitive land reform issue. Positively, GDP growth in the US seems to be maintaining momentum with another solid jobs report providing a solid backdrop for global growth. From a South African perspective, the macro data suggests that domestic activity is picking up: ABSA PMI came in at 51.5 (the highest reading since May 2017); the Mastercard Spending Pulse retail sales growth was reasonably strong at 3% year on year and the Q2 BER consumer confidence recorded 22 confirming that the positive first quarter datapoint was not a "once off". South African trade data also improved in June with the rate of export growth (10% year on year) exceeding import growth (7.3% year on year) for the first time this year.

The fund returned 0.3% for the month versus the All Share Index that lost 0.25%. Significant contributors to performance stemmed from long positions in PSG Group, Discovery Ltd, Dis-Chem Pharmacies and Curro Holdings. The key detractor in July was a long position in Naspers Ltd.

We remain optimistic about the positioning of our portfolio into the remainder of 2018 and into 2019. We are particularly excited about the risk / return profile currently being presented by select South African companies and the optionality that has accrued in the fund. The South African equity market continues to offer value in our opinion with 12 month forward consensus price to earnings multiples ("PE") at 14.5x for the All Share Index and 14.4x for MSCI South Africa. 13 out of 15 South African industries are trading below their 5 year average multiples on 12 month forward consensus PE's. We believe that these attractive valuations combined with an improving economic landscape in South Africa, no matter how mild it is, will provide very attractive returns over the medium term.

We thank you for your continued support.
